Imagine going through life with no one to hold your hand.

This is a reality for many children in the Alameda County foster care system, some of whom may never experience the love and support that only a family can provide.

Poor academic performance, truancy, and criminal behavior are due in large part to a lack of strong positive role models for the students of Hayward.

The students of Hayward are lacking adult role models able to teach the fundamental life skills required to succeed academically, socially, and professionally.
